E-Waste Management 2023

North East Institute of social Sciences and Research conducted an awareness program of E-WASTE management on 27/05/2023 at Peace Centre Chumoukedima, Nagaland. The resource person Miss Bendangwala, Co-founder, e-CIRCLE, articulated that e-waste management is all about properly disposing of electronic waste to protect the environment. It's important because e-waste contains toxic materials that can harm our planet if not handled correctly.

She also emphasized of 5 important points which are:

1. Recycling: Recycling is a key component of e-waste management. It involves the collection and processing of electronic devices to recover valuable materials like metals, plastics, and glass. These materials can then be reused in the manufacturing of new products, reducing the need for raw materials extraction.

2. Proper Disposal: Many electronic devices contain hazardous substances like lead, mercury, cadmium, and brominated flame retardants. Improper disposal of e-waste can lead to the release of these toxins into the environment, posing risks to ecosystems and human health. It's important to ensure that e-waste is disposed of in designated recycling centers or through authorized collection programs.

3. Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR): EPR is a policy approach that holds manufacturers responsible for the entire lifecycle of their products, including their disposal. By implementing EPR programs, manufacturers are encouraged to design products that are easier to recycle and to take responsibility for the safe disposal of their electronic devices.

4. Awareness and Education: Raising awareness about e-waste management is crucial to promote responsible consumer behavior. Educating individuals about the environmental impacts of improper e-waste disposal and the importance of recycling can encourage them to make informed choices and properly dispose of their electronic devices.

5. Reuse and Repair: Another important aspect of e-waste management is promoting the reuse and repair of electronic devices. By extending the lifespan of these devices through repair or repurposing, we can reduce the overall generation of e-waste.

After Which Miss Bendangwala, added Another great way to manage e-waste is by giving or donating electronic devices that are still in good working condition to a professional who can handle correctly. Instead of throwing them away, consider passing them to someone who can make use of them. You can also connect with them through @ecircle_2018.
